Keller Confederate Remembered.

When William Weaver died nearly one hundred twenty-five years ago, his grave was marked with a simple hand-made red standstone marker. It lasted more than a century, but was eventually broken and fell victim to a recent cemetery cleaning. Last month he got a new one, made from granite which will last for thousands of years. He lies buried in Keller's historic Mount Gilead Cemetery, which has recently had an amazing makeover.

Mr. Weaver was born in Putnam Co., Georgia. He entered the Confederate service on June 4, 1861 at Alexandria, Alabama. He was shot through the right foot at Gettysburg on July 2, 1863. He was paroled at Talladega, Alabama on May 21, 1865.

Mr. Weaver married Sarah Reed in Calhoun Co., Alabama in 1864. They had a number of children. The family came to northeast Tarrant County at some time between 1880 and 1900.

One of their daughters, Julia, married a well-known Baptist preacher here, Robert K. Grimes. She died in her early thirties and lies buried near her father.

INTERNET SURPRISES

One of the most notorious events in Tarrant County history took place on the eve of the WBTS. It involved a noted Methodist minister, Anthony Bewley, who was opposed to secession. Read an account of it online at <http://www.rootsweb.Ancestry.com/~molawre2/Features/RevBewley.htm>

“A wise and frugal government, which shall leave men free to regulate their own pursuits of industry and improvement, and shall not take from the mouth of labor the bread it has earned - this is the sum of good government.”
Thomas Jefferson

“The sole object and only legitimate end of government is to protect the citizen in the enjoyment of life, liberty, and property, and when the government assumes other functions it is usurpation and oppression.” Alabama Declaration of Rights, Article I, Section 35

Confederate Trivia

1. What former U.S. President was later elected to serve in the Confederate Congress?
2. What was President Jefferson Davis's middle name, and why did he have it?
3. What was the only department of the Confederate Government which turned a profit during the WBTS?

GETTING TO KNOW OUR LOCAL CONFEDERATES

John Sherman Saunders 1836-1906

John S. Saunders was a familiar face around Grapevine for more than thirty years. Like many other northeast Tarrant County pioneers, he was born in Claiborne County, Tennessee. He served as a 2nd Lieutenant in Co. H, 61st Tennessee Mounted Infantry, enlisting in 1862.

He was captured not far from his home in November, 1863 and spent the rest of the War in yankee prison camps, waiting more than two months after Appomattox before he signed an oath OF allegiance to gain his freedom. In late 1865 he married a neighbor girl, Margaret Stone. In 1867 they left Tennessee and settled in Christian County, Missouri, where they put in a short crop.

In 1868 they came to Grapevine, arriving on December 13. Two days later, Margaret gave birth to their second child. They moved into a large and comfortable two-story double-log house which had earlier belonged to Gen. Richard M. Gano.

Mr. Saunders died in 1906, apparently in the process of trying to get into his storm cellar in the face of approaching storm. Margaret lived until 1932, and is buried beside him in Grapevine Cemetery.

Their home, now known as the Gano Cabin, stands in Old City Park in Dallas. It remained in the Saunders family until the late 1900's.

TAKE TIME TO LAUGH. IT IS THE MUSIC OF
THE SOUL. Proverbs 15:13; 17:23

“To you, Sons of Confederate Veterans, we will commit the vindication of the Cause for which we fought. To your strength will be given the defense of the Confederate soldier's good name, the guardianship of his history, the emulation of his virtues, the perpetuation of those principles which he loved and which you love also, and those ideals which made him glorious and which you also cherish. Remember, it is your duty to see that the true history of the South is presented to future generations.”
