Go to our website and start looking at our newsletters, beginning with the most recent and working back. Contact us at mfpchat@yahoo.com

Our meetings are on the last Thursday of each month, except November and December when we don't meet because it would always conflict with the holidays.

Each month's program announcement is always on the first page of this newsletter.

We meet at the Catfish and Company restaurant in Hurst, Texas, along the north side of the Airport Freeway and on the access road west of Precinct Line Road.

If you'd like to eat with us we'd suggest you be there at 6 p.m. We start the meeting at 7 p.m. Our goal is to be finished and out by 8:30 p.m. It would be bad manners for a group as large as ours to stay 'til closing time. We appreciate the restaurant's hospitality to the Sons of Confederate Veterans.

Memphis, Confederate vets group to enter mediation over removal of statue

<http://thehill.com/homenews/news/361946-memphis-confederate-vets-group-to-enter-mediation-over-removal-of-statue>

Thanks to compatriot Clay Fitzhugh for bringing this article to our attention. Obviously, there's a lot the article doesn't say. Looking at the photograph, it's easy to see what side the media is taking. Will Americans ever again be able to trust anything the mainstream media says or does? The title of the article would lead one to believe that the citizens of Memphis and the Confederate vets group are two mutually-exclusive groups.

Supreme Court Rejects Case Over Confederate Emblem On Mississippi Flag

November 27, 2017: The U. S. Supreme Court has declined to take up a case challenging the use of a Confederate emblem on the Mississippi state flag.

Read one of many online accounts at:

Mayor of Gulfport, Mississippi, William Gardner Hewes, calls for a new state flag

He says they'll continue to fly the state flag in Gulfport, but he wishes it would be replaced.

Hewes is a direct descendant of Commissary Sergeant Frederick Searle Hewes (1830-1913) of Co. H, 32nd Mississippi Infantry, who is buried in Gulfport.

Mayor Hewes has stepped in it several times in recent months over his push to fly something to represent Mississippi other than its duly-adopted flag. He tried banning it from city property a while back, and that didn't fly with voters. Now he's written an editorial encouraging the state to fly one of its earlier state flags. Of course, he claims this is all in the sprit of unity.... One of many articles can be seen at:

Nov. 18 was Felix H. Corbell Day at Old Arlington Cemetery

Six Taylor Campers braved mid-November temps in the 60's and a 30-mph wind to install a corrected marker for Mr. Corbell.

Thanks to Kyle Lewis for driving the stone and tools and your editor to the cemetery that morning. The installers were, standing l-r, Clay Fitzhugh, Ron Parker, Chuck Marks, David Stewart, and kneeling, Rich McCook, and Mike Patterson. Photos on this and the next page are by Kyle Lewis.

After looking at the photos he took for us, Kyle Lewis suggested that we might have someone with a lot of influence on our side in our effort to mark Confederate graves.

This is the first of twelve new markers we will place using our generous grant from the Society of the Order of the Southern Cross. We thank them for their confidence in us.

*Dear Mr. Patterson,
I am so grateful to you that words cannot express it. I thank you and all these gentlemen so much for honoring Felix Corbell. Words are not enough to express. Please thank these wonderful men for me. My family will be thrilled. Blessings,

At Worthington Monuments' open house/ribbon cutting in November, the photographer caught your editor explaining to his wife, Marilyn, the truth about Santa Claus.

Fort Worth Confederate dead since 1908 will finally get marker on December 2.

Father of Fort Worth fire chief, CSA vet buried in Oakwood Cemetery to be honored.

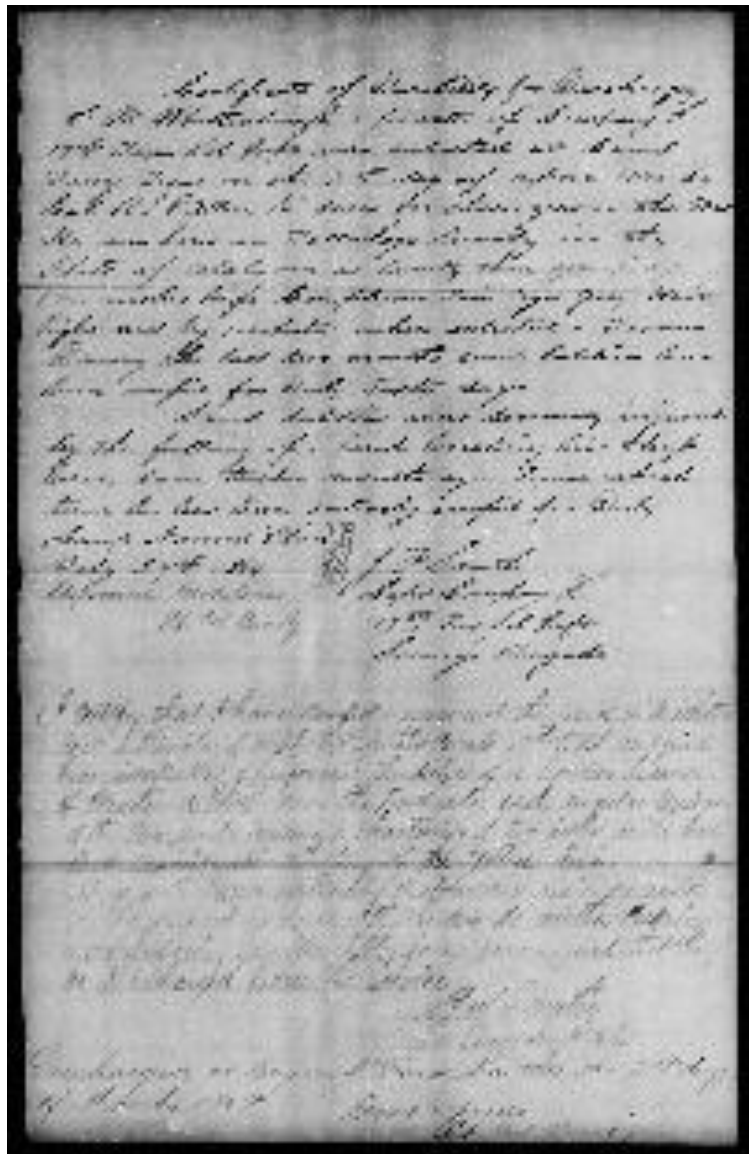

Elmos Monroe Whittenburg was born about 1841 in Alabama. By 1850 he was living in Talladega County with his parents and siblings. He was a son of William Monroe Whittenburg (1823-1900) and his wife, Caroline (Christian) (1821-1908), both of whom died and are buried in Erath County, Texas. The Whittenburgs came to Texas about 1852 and first settled in Bell County.

Mr. Whittenburg enlisted in the Confederate service at Belton, Texas on March 24, 1862. He was a private in Co. I, 17th (Allen's) Texas Infantry, and served until he received a medical discharge on February 23, 1864.

His discharge (at right) says Whittenburg broke his thigh just below the hip joint when a tree limb fell on him about twelve months earlier. The bone knit back out of position, and caused that leg to be about two inches shorter afterwards. When he applied for his pension in 1905 he added the detail that he was "crippled during a storm" while in the Confederate Army. One affidavit in his pension file from a comrade says the storm happened at Pine Bluff, Arkansas.

Whittenburg came home to Bell County after the war and remained there several years. By the time the 1900 census was taken they had moved to Parker County, and in that year his wife, Cornelia, said she had given birth to five children, four of whom were still alive. About 1901 they moved to Fort Worth, and in 1904 he applied for a Confederate pension, which was granted in short order. About 1905 doctors told him he had developed cancer, from which he died on January 18, 1908.

After his death, Mrs. Whittenburg lived with her married children in Fort Worth. In 1908 she, too, applied for and received a Confederate widows' pension. She died at the home of her daughter, Ida Ross, at 1605 Lagonda Street, in Fort Worth, on October 6, 1917. She was buried in Greenwood Cemetery, rather than beside her husband in Oakwood.

Object lesson. Indexes are only as good as the folks who made them, but indexers can't read the minds of people who made the records over a century ago. The person who wrote Mr. Whittenburg's death certificate, above, forgot to cross the t's, so he's shown in the indexes as E. M. Whillenburg.

Whittenburg's new stone, above left, is the second using our new grant from the Order of the Southern Cross. Mrs. Whittenburg survived until 1917 and was buried in Greenwood Cemetery beneath a flat stone.

Time and again we see the sons and grandsons of Tarrant County's Confederate veterans taking their place in leadership roles here in government and business.

Such was the case of E. M. Whittenburg's son, John L. Whittenburg. He joined the Fort Worth fire department in 1904 and put his skill in handling horses to good use. He was one of the fortunate firemen who got to see the end of the horse-drawn era and the emergence of motorized equipment in the service. He was put in charge of opening the new Fire Station No. 12 in the North Side near the Stockyards. Located at 2408 Prospect Avenue, it is shown below about the time it opened. The building remains and is in use today.

John retired in 1947, as Battalion Chief after 43 years of service. In 1972, he was again honored as Ft. Worth's oldest living fireman at age ninety-two. In his retirement he enjoyed working in his garden and sitting on his front porch.

Janie Hall has arranged his interesting memoirs into a book shown at right called Duty Honor Courage, which is available on the internet.

Markers in the works

Now that our grant from the Society of the Order of the Southern Cross has been approved, we're in business for the next twelve months or so.

In December we'll mark another Oakwood veteran, Elmus M. Whittenburg, who served in Co. I, 17th Texas Infantry and died in 1908. His son was a fire chief on the North Side of Ft. Worth.

In January we'll be doing a replacement stone for Moses Allen of Co. H, 32nd Georgia Infantry who died in 1896. He's buried in White's Chapel Cemetery in Southlake, and has a very small recently-placed stone which makes no reference to his service and his death date 6 is years off.

In February and March we'll be staying close to home, with one marker in Bedford and one in Grapevine, respectively.

Our April marker will be incorporated into a short Confederate History Month program in Oakwood Cemetery in Fort Worth.

Our continued thanks to Worthington Monuments for making it possible for us to have an active marker program.

Long-time Worthington employee Dan Shaw sets the blaster to engrave Confederate vet John F. Guthrie's marker, which we installed in October.

Taylor Camp members take part in Massing of the Colors in Ft. Worth on November 12

Two more of the Taylor Camp members are members of the Frontier Brigade Band, which provided the music for the event. They are Richard McCook, at left, and Terry Theiss, who was ill and unable to attend.

Grapevine cavalry veteran was proud of his Confederate service

Joseph N. Willis, a well-known pioneer in the town of Grapevine, was a Confederate veteran who served in the 34th Georgia Cavalry. He was one of the charter members of the Grapevine Methodist Church.

Family genealogists at Ancestry.com say he was born in Georgia in 1839, a son of John E. and Frances Willis. Those sources also say he was living with his parents in Jackson County, Georgia when the 1850 census was taken.

The official records show that Willis enlisted March 3, 1862 at Athens, Georgia. The last roll for the regiment on file, dated September and October, 1864, shows him present for duty. He surrendered May 23, 1865 at Augusta, Georgia, and was paroled there. Soon after the War Willis settled at Grapevine and in 1869 married Mary Elizabeth Hudgins, a daughter of Grapevine pioneer El Nathan Hudgins. She was about eleven years his junior. He could not have found a more Confederate young lady. Four of her brothers left Grapevine to serve the South. The older two died of disease during the service and were buried where they died. The younger two returned to this area and raised families here. Many of their descendants still live among us. A few years ago the Taylor camp made cenotaphs for the two older brothers and placed them beside their mother's grave in Minter's Chapel Cemetery on the Airport land. In addition, two of her father's younger brothers also left Grapevine to serve as Confederates; they both survived the War and returned to Grapevine.

Mr. Willis did not apply for a Confederate pension. His death certificate shows that he died at 2 a.m. on March 24, 1914, of nephritis, with an unspecified injury as a secondary cause. He was buried in Grapevine Cemetery.

Known as Mollie, his widow was a well-known and respected member of the community for twenty-six years after his death. She applied for a pension in 1931, and an interesting affidavit in her file made by Grapevine businessman B. R. Wall says that Mr. Willis "usually wore gray clothes and in his residence there is his photo in Confederate uniform and numbers of pictures of Confederate officers adorn the walls of the rooms." Mrs. Willis died in 1940.

Getting to know our local Confederates

DIED.

It is our sad duty to chronicle another visitation of the Death angel in our midst; this time it is our highly respected fellow-citizen Joe N. Willis, which occurred at 3:20 p. m. last Tuesday, after a lingering illness of several weeks, caused by a fall: He suffered a great deal during that time, but was patient through it all. "Uncle Joe," as he was familiarly called by his many friends, was born in Georgia; married in 1869 to Miss Mollie Hudgins, daughter of N. H. Hudgins, who survives him. He joined the Methodist church here in 1871 and has been a consistent member ever since. He was 75 years old at time of his death. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Mussett and the remains of Uncle Joe were laid to rest in Grapevine Cemetery late Tuesday evening, followed to the grave by sorrowing relatives and friends. We extend our sincere and heartfelt sympathy to his bereaved wife, who will miss him more than words can tell. May God in His infinite wisdom and love comfort and sustain her in this sad hour of her affliction.

We appreciate the helping hands of...

...Kristen Giesecke who made the drawing and the mask for Mr. Corbell's stone, and Dan Shaw who engraved the stone for us in early November. Ditto for getting Mr. Whittenburg's stone done at the end of November. Both are employees of Worthington Monuments.

...Tom Trawick, Shane Woodward, Joe Wade, and Bobby Gresham who took part in the Veterans Day Parade in Fort Worth on November 11.

...Sean Partee and his wife Christie who represented the Taylor Camp in the Grapevine Veterans Day Parade in Grapevine on November 11.

...Chuck Marks, Ron Turner, James Alderman, Bobby Gresham, Rich McCook, and Mike Patterson, members of the Taylor Camp who took part in the Massing of the Colors in Fort Worth on November 12. Ron and Bobby were in uniform representing the Sons of the American Revolution.

....Tammy Patterson, who took us to Worthingtons' in Rendon to pick up Mr. Corbell's new stone on November 12.

....Chuck Marks, Ron Parker, Clay Fitzhugh, David Stewart, Rich McCook, Mike Patterson, and Kyle Lewis for helping to set Mr. Corbell's stone on Nov. 18.

....Kyle Lewis for taking us to Worthingtons' in Rendon on Nov. 25 to pick up Mr. Whittenburg's completed stone and taking it to Colleyville.

....The gentlemen in the Society of the Order of the Southern Cross for their confidence in granting us the funds to make twelve new markers.

....Tammy Patterson and Marilyn Patterson who proofread this issue of the newsletter.

Next April we're going to stage a short event during Confederate history month.

We've found a locally-prominent Confederate vet who died in 1886, was buried in Oakwood, and has never had a stone. We'll get him one, have a short ceremony, and fire a musket salute. We'll get busy right now and try to find some descendants who might be interested in coming that day.

Some notable quotes from this month's Confederate Veteran magazine

... "We now see everything relating to the Confederacy being removed and desecrated, all in the name of political correctness, by those who have never opened an American history book... To capitulate to this uneducated mass is tantamount to giving a child a piece of candy. You can gift the kid with the entire candy store and it would still not appease them." Jesse Wayne, Billings, Montana

... "The placement of our flags and monuments was an expression of trust, which has been callously betrayed, in the integrity of public officials who were elected to serve and represent all Americans, not just their liberal constituents." Fr. Richard W. Rudd, Independence, Missouri.
